

Belinda Trotta, Bureau of Meteorology

Belinda Trotta is a research scientist in the Forecast Improvement Team, where she works on machine learning for post-processing NWP forecasts. She led development of Rainforests, the Bureau's new machine learning post-processing system for precipitation. Belinda holds a PhD in pure mathematics from LaTrobe University. She joined the Bureau in 2020.