

WMO Quality Management Forum Rules

1. Register with the same NAME and EMAIL that you signed up with on the main QM site. This helps us filter out spam accounts and avoid confusion when identifying members of the forum.
2. This forum is a place where you can interact with other like-minded people from all over the world regarding quality management and the delivery of weather, ocean, hydrological and climate services. This may lead to the exchange of many differing ideas. It is important to always remain respectful if you do not completely agree with another point of view. Making people feel unwelcome and offensive comments will not be tolerated.
3. Avoid using offensive language. If you have a really good argument, offensive language will not be needed to support it.
4. No Spamming. SPAM = Stupid Pointless Annoying Messages - in other words do not post something if it does not relate directly to the topic at hand.
5. The Moderators (currently Bryan Boase and Helen Tseros) are here to help answer questions and make the forum run smoothly. Don't hesitate to contact them with any questions, concerns or feedback.
6. Groups are not to be created by individuals. The use of "topics" has been created to enable QM Forum Members to either post, access or request specific information about best practice applicable to addressing clauses within ISO9001. If you wish to add a topic, please contact Bryan Boase or Helen Tseros
